Tempered glass

Tempered glass has the advantage of withstanding very high temperatures and hence useful for many industrial applications.

We process all size of glass from standard to jumbo size. A wide range of multi type glasses especially low – e, different glass shapes and glass thickness can be tempered.

The tempered glass is then tested and approved of the ANSI Z97.1-1984 standard, EN 12150 standards.

Laminated Glass

Laminated glass is mostly used in curtain walls and for various industrial purposes.

Varying thickness, shapes and types of glasses can be laminated. Manufactured by bonding (autoclaving) two or more pieces of glass together with a plastic interlayer for safety or security glazing requirements, the laminated glass has its own benefits.

The tough protective interlayer bonded together between two sheets of glass will prevent the glass from shattering and will hold the fragment of glass together incase of breakage of glass.
