产品/机械

Glass bottles and jars in white glass in standard designs and special customized versions.

The company presents you a wide range of standard designs. These products can be used on high-speed filling lines. They are suitable for pasteurization and sterilization.

It is our aim to maintain a constant availability of all designs from this product range.

First choice for new product development

We offer a comprehensive support during new product development. Transforming the customer's vision into the final product is the sole responsibility of our staff. This process involves creating initial designs and specs, digital renderings and mockups, testing the glass samples on the filling lines and finally launching the serial production. The production process is supervised by our forming specialists and quality control, which provide necessary support in the customer's production plant.

Our advantages are short lead times, small and elastic production runs. This results in minimizing the risk and costs involved in developing new products.

In-house design studio

Our designers make customers' visions tangible, turning them into real projects and product implementations. It is in this team where the rough sketches, final drawings, technical specification, visualisation in 2D and 3D, mock-ups, samples for marketing tests and finally mould designs are created.
